Summary

Experience

I have 15 years of experience in Higher Education with 11 years teaching and lecturing. I am also trained and qualified in systems administration and data management for Virtual learning environments and other online platforms.

Skills

Lecturing and Tutoring in a wide range of Leadership/Management and Academic and Employability Skills topics. High level of digital literacy and analytical skills.

Career

I have worked on many curriculum development projects during my career in HE.

These include:

- Building and creating a bilingual Learning Management System,
- Introducing and developing the concept and practice of eLearning to university staff
- Developing, launching and teaching a brand new, flexible university degree course, delivered out in the community on evenings and weekends.

I have worked both on and offline for over 20 years and I can say honestly now that the online working world is where I am at my most comfortable and effective.

I am therefore now in a position to offer my services as an online tutor; providing academic or digital skills sessions and/or assessment student support as needed. This can be either synchronous (a live online session for example) or asynchronous in terms of providing teaching materials, marking assessments and offering online support.

Experience

Lecturer

University of Wales Trinity Saint David

Sep 2012 - Present (11 years 5 months)

Work Experience

My employment within UWTSD began in 2008; initially as a Senior Learning Technologist and then in 2012 as a Lecturer on the Skills for the Workplace Outreach full-time degree programme. My additional roles and responsibilities included both Graduate Attributes and Learning Technology Co-ordinator for the whole of the Programme and Level 4 Year Tutor.

I moved to Hospitality and Tourism Management in 2022 as Lecturer and Digital Officer, teaching Management & Organisational Behaviour, Organisational Consultancy and Academic & Business Skills to wholly online student cohorts.
